

CULTURALHOTSPOTS

CULTURAL

HOTSPOTS

CULTURAL HOTSPOTS

Montalvo Arts Center and the Hewlett Foundation request your participation in a conversation surrounding the introduction of Silicon Valley and the U.S. to an extraordinary social experiment advanced by Brazil to provide digital technology for the empowerment of marginalized communities.

Over the past five years, Brazil has invested $8 million in the creation of “cultural hotspots” offering web access, digital kits and open source software for impoverished communities to upload their stories and directly engage with the 21st century.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 14, 10AM – 4PM

(lunch included)

HEWLETT AUDITORIUM

2121 Sand Hill Road, Menlo Park

Space is limited to 40 participants of a select group of culturally engaged, technologically savvy thinkers and business leaders.

RSVP by December 11 to be part of this unique and exciting movement in digital culture:

rbreckenridge@montalvoarts.org, (408) 961-5855

PANELISTS:

Gilberto Gil

Minister of Culture, Brazil

Claudio Prado

Secretary for Digital Culture, Brazil

Lawrence Lessig

Professor of Law, Stanford University

Brewster Kahle

Director of Internet Archive

John Perry Barlow

Founder, Electronic Frontier Foundation

Chris Anderson

Editor-in-Chief, Wired Magazine

Gordon Knox, Moderator

Director of Global Initiatives,
Montalvo Arts Center

Hewlett funding line to be sent on Monday will be placed here.

montalvo
ARTS CENTER